ABSTRACT

A project assessment system comprises a process planning data base, an actual progress information data base, a forecast model data base, a forecast estimation computation device, a project assessment device and a display device of assessment result. The system of the present invention allows assessing the project (clarification of both problems and superior aspects) by using the practical estimation on the basis of quantitative indications.